DIARY OF A TERRORIST: MIKDAD
CALL NUMBER: 303.625 M636Zd vhs
52 minutes; circa 1998. Produced and directed by Dan Setton; written by Dan Setton, Laura Romanoff.

SUMMARY This is the story of Hussein Mikdad, a man who is sent to bestow mass death and destruction and becomes the only victim of his own bomb. It is the story of crime and punishment. Hussein Mikdad was a successful accountant in Beirut. His real dream, however, has always been to play a key role among the guerrilla fighters of the Hezbullah. In 1996, he was offered the ideal mission: to wind his way from Beirut through Europe and to be the first to penetrate the borders of Israel - all the while carrying plastic explosives in his briefcase. Trained by Iranians, his directive was twofold: the first, to recruit future suicide bombers and the second, in the words of his direct superior, to 'cause a spectacle that everyone will talk about.' The film, through impeccable research, gradually reveals a stunning network of international terrorism operating not only in the Middle East but also in the U.S. and Europe.
